Dear hiring manager,

My name is Jørgine Oseland, and I wish to apply to your position as a frontend developer. I am currently in my first year of 2 years, studying frontend development at Noroff. Here I improved my knowledge of web development and programming. I'm excited to work as a frontend developer to develop real web sites and improve my knowledge with real world experiences.

I have previously worked for Hadland Oseland, a construction company. Here I worked together with a team to build formwork before pouring concrete. I had no prior experience with this type of work and got to learn while working. After a short amount of time I started to also teach the trainees about the work.

Throughout my studies I have learned to use various tools and technologies. Mainly HTML, CSS and JavaScript. I have practiced making websites for fictional clients, where I have used tools like Git, Figma, and VSCode.

I am excited to hear back from you and the potential of working for the company. I am sure with my current skills and continued development I will become a strong part of your team.

Thank you for your consideration

Best regards,

Jørgine Oseland
